Welcome to another year of INsight!

The stand out transit this year is the fixed Saturn-Uranus square. We will witness three exact hits of this tense aspect, in February, June and December. This aspect is likely to generate tension and conflict between those who want to see progress and change, and those who prefer the security of the past. Likewise, those who recklessly seek freedom and those who take personal responsibility are also at odds.

Capricorn new moon

This potent New Moon highlights the critical nature of many global issues and brings them to the forefront of consciousness. The Sun and Moon align with the lord of survival, death and rebirth, Pluto, plus they square the goddess of strife, Eris.

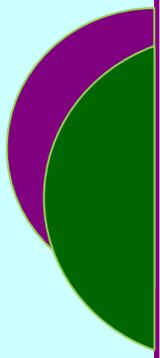

Potent revolutionary forces are signalling the need for an overhaul of many long standing processes and systems. This has been the case since 2008 when Pluto first entered Capricorn. Now that Pluto is nearing the end of Capricorn, there is an urgent need to overhaul our wasteful ways and preserve the environment and earth's resources. It's essential that we embrace new technologies and stop the insanity of catering to entrenched power bases and the greed that feeds them.

This New Moon comes a week before the inauguration of US President-elect, Joe Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris.

Uranus stations direct the day following this New Moon and will be joined (anagram for Joe Biden) by Mars for the inauguration.

Biden is a Scorpio, had has Mercury, Venus and Mars there too. He understands the Pluto archetype. Harris does too. Her Sun is in Libra with ruling planet Venus conjunct Pluto and Uranus and opposite Chiron. They make a formidable team. They have the skills required the for the massive task ahead.

LEO Full Moon

So much is on the line. The incredible planetary patterns we have been witnessing over recent years are highlighted once again in this Full Moon chart. There are some incredibly tight aspects in play, reinforcing the critical significance of this time.

aligned, with just 0.09 minutes of arc separating them. This aspect symbolises financial and relationship pain and loss, but at the same time there is a need to cut away those things that no longer support us. This can be liberating. This aspect teaches us to focus on our inner values.

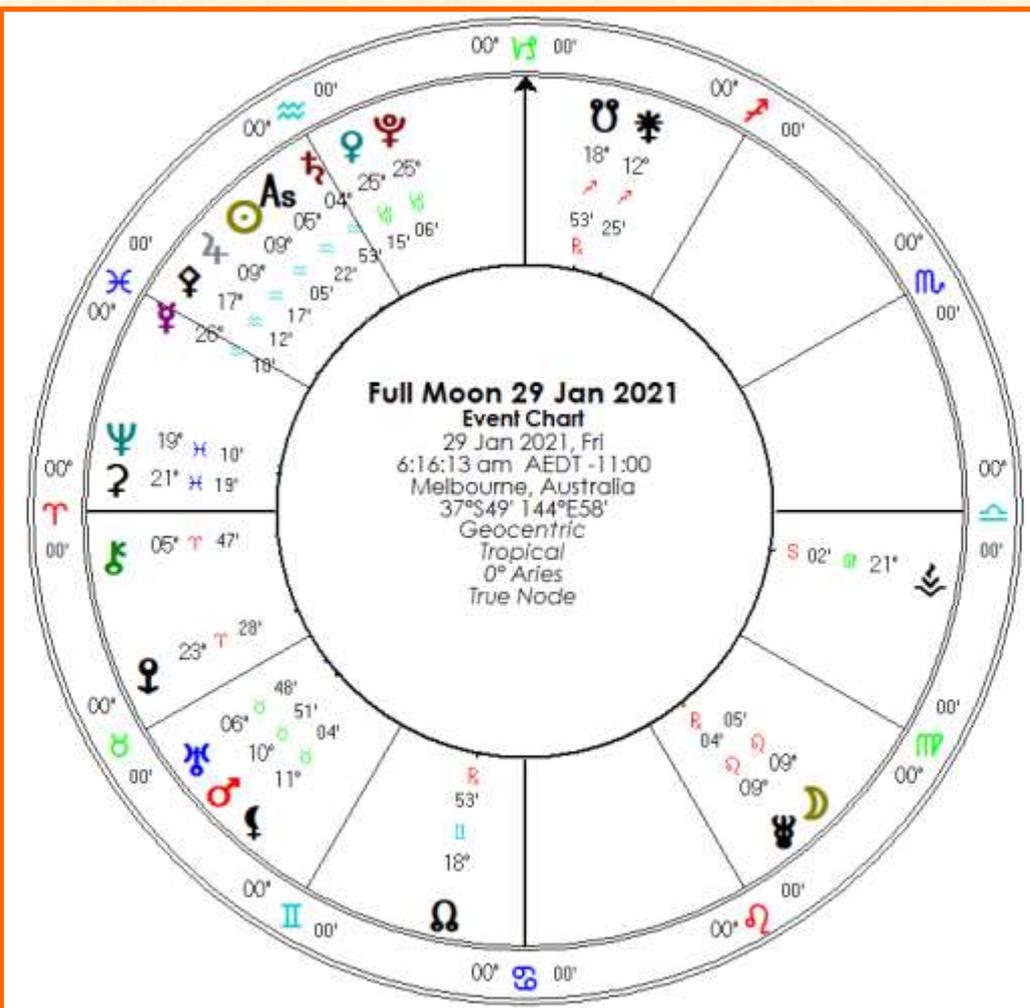

The Sun and Jupiter are also very close, with just 0.12 minutes of arc between them. As Jupiter commences a new solar synod, we see a surge in confidence and optimism.

To top things off, the Moon is only one minute of arc from asteroid Hygiea, goddess of health and hygiene. As we know, there are many vaccines in development that are due to be rolled out this year. This Full Moon may signal the release of a new vaccine or another breakthrough in the health sector.

This chart marks a significant turning point in world affairs as a new cycle takes us towards a more hopeful future. Change is inevitable.

Saturn Sqr Uranus

Those who are progressive thinkers tend to be more responsible. They have already mastered the lessons of Saturn and are keen to embrace the Uranus archetype.

Those who seek to cling to the past, generally speaking are still caught in projecting Saturn onto government or other authority figures, who they see as controlling, or hostile. They have not yet learned how to own Saturn and as a result they have become more radical and reckless, protesting their right to personal freedom because they don't feel free.

By and large, mastering Saturn and Uranus take a long time. As we grow and evolve through our experiences we have opportunities to manage them more effectively. The responsible progressives are ahead of the game. Those clinging to the past and asserting their right to freedom have neither security nor freedom. They are stuck and living in fear.

But for all of us, fixed squares are arguably the toughest aspects to work through. There is a lot of tension and stress in this aspect, especially so since this is a fixed square, and therefore inflexible. Saturn and Uranus are also naturally at odds with one another. They are vastly different archetypes. The scene is set both entrenched stalemates and for a number of sudden radical events throughout the coming year.

There will be significant challenges to face in 2021 as Saturn (old school policies) and Uranus (future innovations) will have more than one battle to fight.

Inherent in this fixed square is the need for change. To release stress, something must change but it's tough to make changes when we are stuck. Fear often prevents us from taking action.

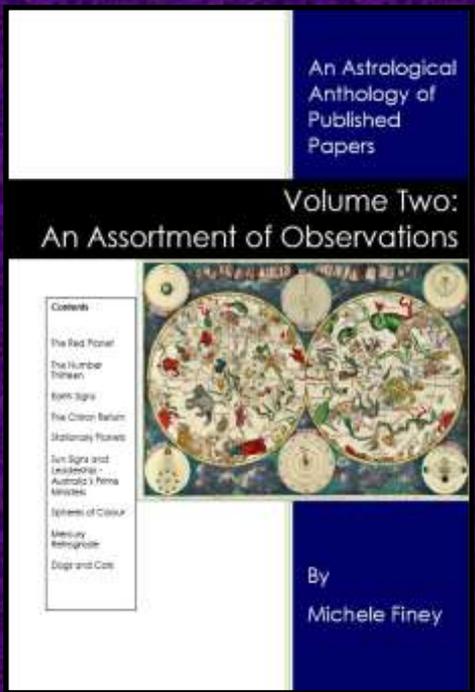

Government policies need to change in many areas to address the future and the present impacts of climate change which is a pressing global issue we have to face. Governments are made up of individuals who have a variety of views and abilities. This fixed square will impact all of us in one way or another, if not personally, then collectively. It will be interesting to see how this battle unfolds throughout 2021. The future is dawning and Aquarian influences founded on scientific truths are coming to the fore.
