Pisces new Moon

Jupiter is the traditional ruling planet of Pisces and its sailing close to the Sun and Moon. Neptune, the modern ruler of Pisces continues its voyage through mutable water too, and pretty soon we will experience a magical conjunction of Jupiter and Neptune which is exact in April.

Meanwhile, the intensity of the Venus-Mars-Vesta-Pluto stellium is asking us to dig deep to find new layers of resolve, with the people of Ukraine literally in the firing line. The second alignment of Venus-Mars is exact on March 6th and this one significantly alters our course as it happens at exactly 00AQ01. I am hopeful that this will bring about a dramatic energy shift that will override the current situation in eastern Europe.

Aquarius is an independent, humanitarian sign that favours free self determination. The will of the people; the community acting together, I believe, will at some point overturn the Russian dictatorship. Aquarian influences are gathering pace.

With Jupiter about to commence a new synod, confidence is high and people are willing to take risks. This New Moon sextiles Uranus, providing exciting opportunities and a fresh perspective.

Whatever transpires, personally and collectively, this New Moon heralds a dramatic about-turn. There is a lot of passion and power generated by Venus and Mars.

Lecture Title: Stationary Planets for Personal Development

The planets in our birth chart and their cycles symbolise our potential and how that potential develops over time. When planets station, they provide both challenges and opportunities for personal growth. In this presentation, Michele will show how we can make the most of stationary planets in our birth chart and when transiting stations cross our path.

CHARTS IN THE NEWS

SCOTT MORRISON

The quote, "horrible, horrible person", is in the midst of some difficulties. We don't have a time of birth for Scott Morrison, so I am using a noon chart, which has Leo rising, which is a distinct possibility, as it fits with his interest in leadership, lack of interest in details, and other aspects of his rather arrogant persona.

In recent times he has also been called, "a complete psycho", "a liar" (twice) "a hypocrite", and "a fraud", many of these comments coming from his party colleagues.

Though there is no known birthtime for Morrison, it's likely his natal Moon is making a conjunction to Neptune. It's somewhere between 22 Scorpio and 7 Sagittarius. This is a noon chart.

His Sun opposes Neptune, which when operating negatively, is known for its capacity to deceive, consistent with the recent leaked text messages about his deceptive nature. Neptune is also known for its spiritual connotations, which fits with Morrison's religious bent and involvement in organisations such as Hillsong.

The outer wheel below is for the exact hit of transiting Uranus to his Venus in Taurus on the 14th of this month. At the same time transiting Saturn is squaring his Sun and the transiting Nodal Axis is aligning with his Sun and Neptune.

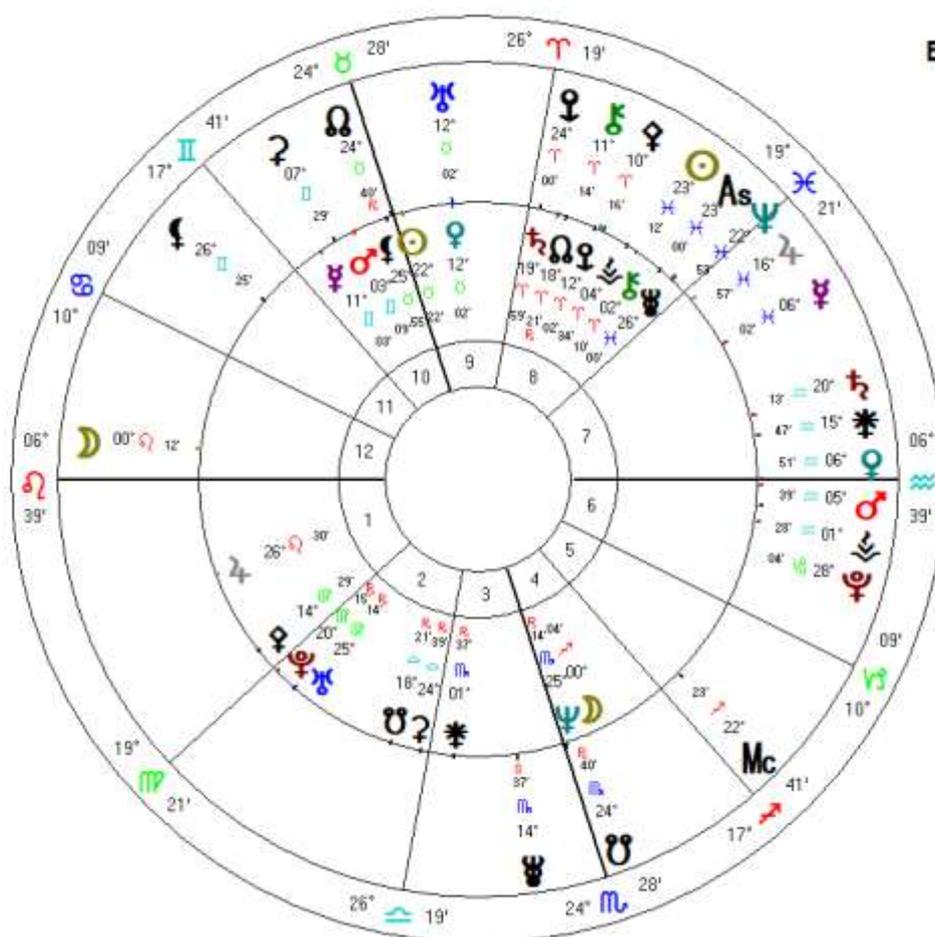

All these transits suggest he will continue to experience tough challenges as he tries to control his party, his colleagues and lead Australia.

There is of course an election looming, and it seems that he is waiting as long as possible to call it, desperately hoping for the tide to turn. The last possible date for the election is 21 May.

Meanwhile, the NSW Branch of the Liberal Party is in disarray, largely because Morrison is trying to control who is pre-selected into various seats.

Morrison's birthday is 13 May, around the time of the election. He will turn 54. Will he be celebrating I wonder? I'll have more about the coming federal election next month...

virgo Full Moon

Venus reaches her greatest elongation from Sol on the 20th, and in doing so, she quickens her pace.

The recent Venus-Mars conjunctions have brought significant creative opportunities, but now the time has come to develop these ideas as we start a new phase of development.

Venus and Mars will continue to express their own creative agendas and will be sustained by their recent rendezvous, but there is also now the realisation that ultimately it is up to each of us, every individual to live our own life and develop our full potential.

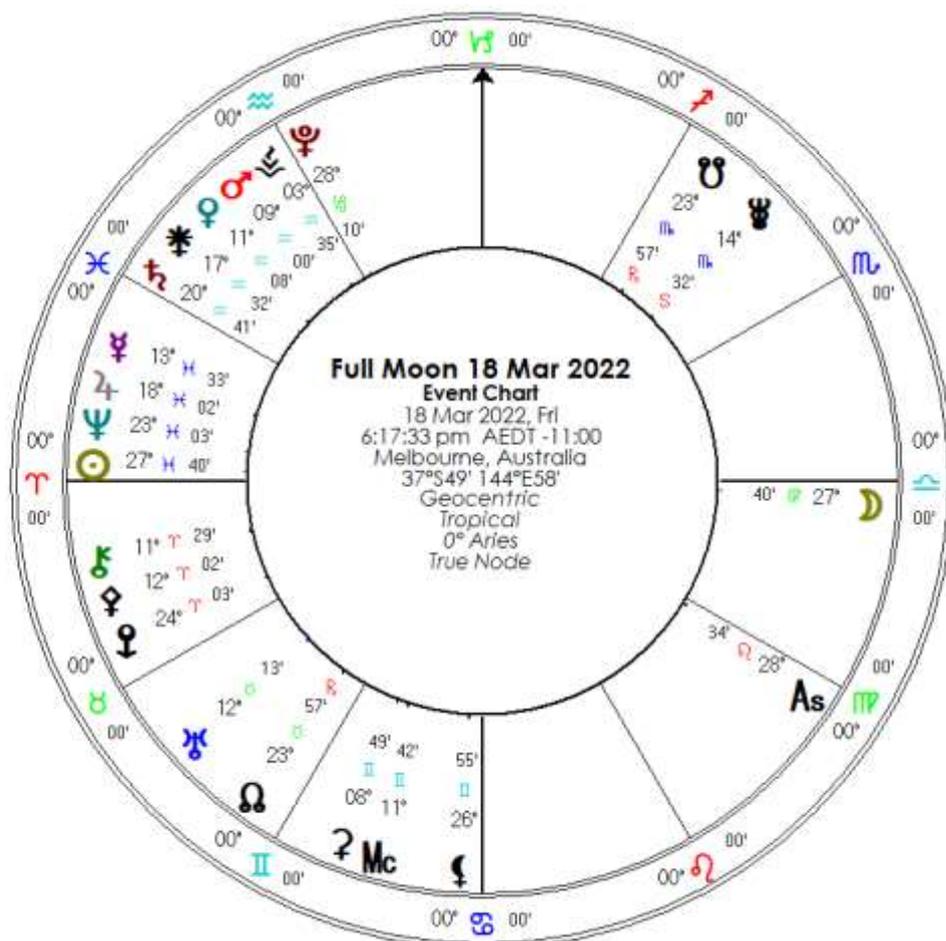

In order to make the most of Venus and Mars, it's important that they do not try to dominate one another, but work as a team. Too much of either can lead to relationship breakdowns and hostility.

Full Moons are an opportunity to reflect on our behaviour and direction, so this Full Moon lends itself to a process of refining and adjusting our expression and the way we interact with others. Valuable insights into how others view us can help in this process as we work towards harmonising our needs and desires with those of others.

Mercury, Jupiter and Neptune boost imagination and provide opportunities to learn new skills. Sometimes the first step is to reflect on our own behaviour and how others might view our actions.

The Virgo Full Moon trines Pluto, so we can take advantage of this lunation to reinvent ourselves and take a big step in self development.

March equinox

A new astrological year commences each March as the Sun crosses the Equator heading north once again. The chart for the Sun's Aries Ingress is an important symbol for the coming year.

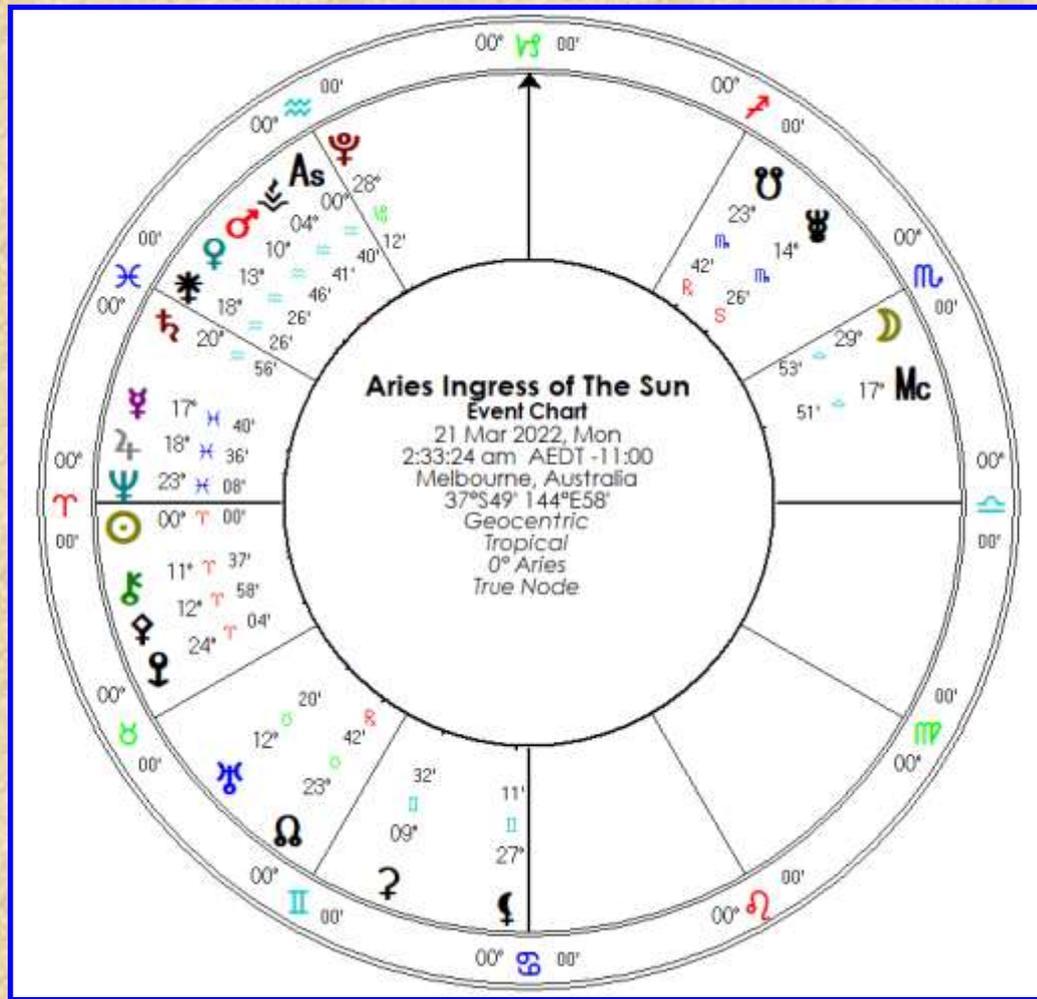

lating our creative impulse. Now though, Venus and Mars are squaring Uranus, challenging us to embrace the future. The future is always unknown and full of possibilities, but now is where we have an opportunity to create it.

this aspect will become more acute in April. This is not a helpful aspect and suggests the potential for conflict.

This ingress suggests that changes are coming, big changes, and some may be sudden and unexpected. Saturn squares the Nodal Axis and Fixed squares like the ones we see in this chart, can devolve into stalemates. Hopefully peace will be restored in April when Jupiter and Neptune hold hands. Though it's often difficult, we all have choices to make.

The first thing I happened to notice in this chart is that the Moon is located at 29LI53, at the very end of Libra and about to cross into Scorpio. This suggests that the coming 12 months is a significant transition, a time of endings and making preparations for a new beginning in March 2023. This is supported by the fact that Pluto will cross into Aquarius in early 2023, bringing a dramatic shift in our collective trajectory towards a progressive future. I am hopeful this ingress when it arrives in 2023 will be a major awakening.

This ingress chart also features a host of planets in Aquarius, a prelude to the coming era and laying the foundation for the future that we will collectively create.

The Venus-Mars conjunction at 00AQ01 on March 6 provides energy and a new enthusiasm, stimu-
