Pluto stations direct on 9 October less than 24 hours before this Full Moon. It was at the end of April when Pluto stationed retrograde, so if you think back to events around that time you will have an understanding of its theme and message.

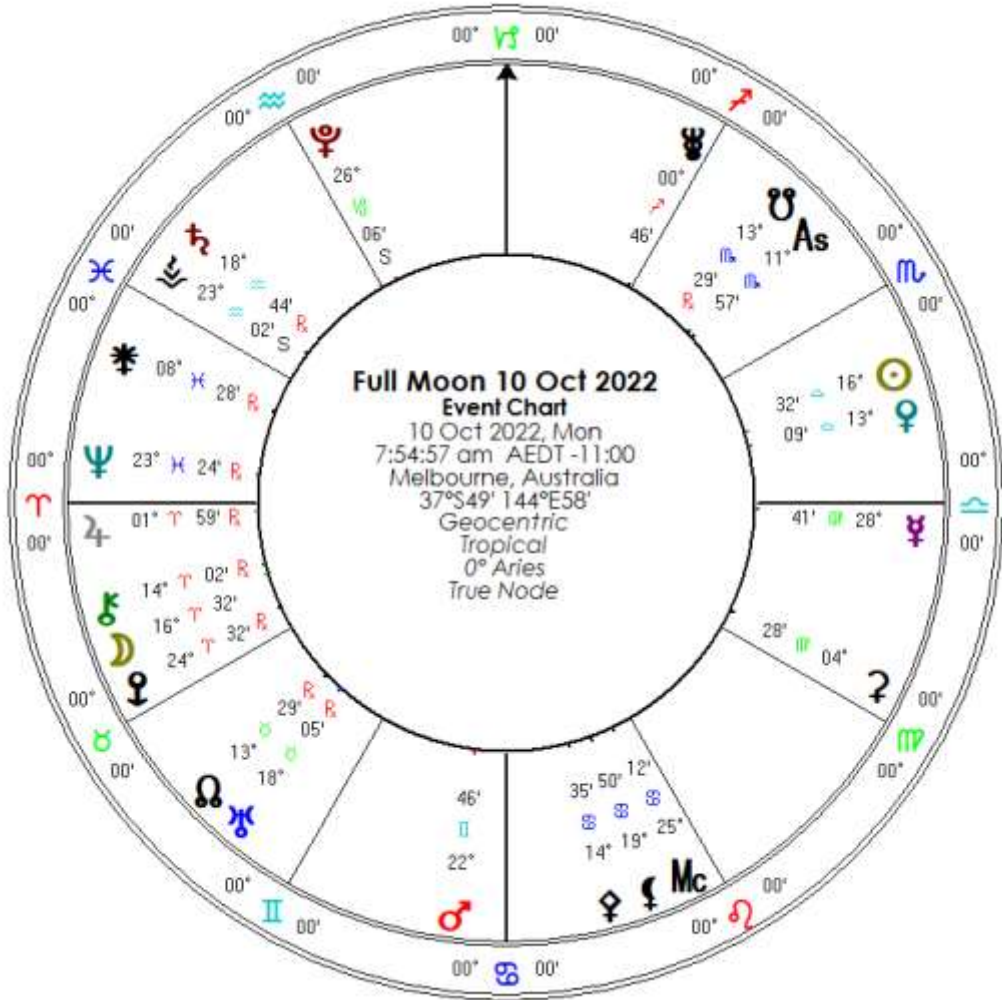

Pluto stations can take us on a dark journey into the Underworld where we experience grief and pain. But there is also a positive message to Pluto stations which is deeply felt emotional healing.

This Full Moon aligns with Chiron accentuating the potential for healing. With Venus close to the Sun, there is an opportunity now to mend fractures in personal relationships and boost self esteem.

Saturn and Vesta together in Aquarius provide additional focus on our long term goals. The trine to Mars in Gemini helps the wheels run smoothly. Ideas and their implementation are seamlessly joined and communication is ramped up.

The Saturn-Uranus square so prominent over the past year, now reaches a turning point so we are witnessing a global shift towards future possibilities and the opening of new pathways, as old ways of doing things is mothballed.

CHARTS IN THE NEWS

Vladimir Putin

There's some uncertainty about Vladimir Putin's year of birth. Assuming he was born in 1952 and not 1950, I have used this 1952 chart to look at the possible impact of this month's partial solar eclipse and his Solar Return.

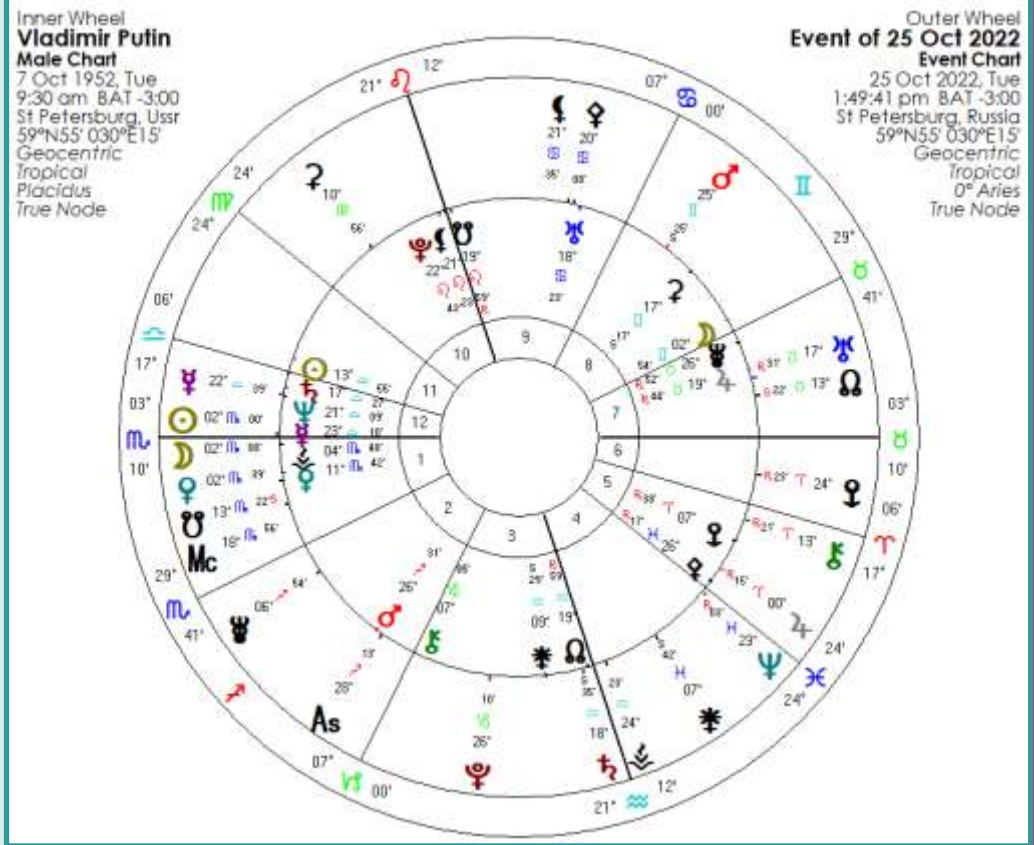

A quick look at this month's solar eclipse and its transits to his 1952 chart reveal that it's powerfully aligned with his Ascendant. In addition, the transiting Nodal Axis is about to hit his Sun's ruling planet, Venus.

At the same time transiting Mars is opposing his natal Mars. Mars is virtually stationary at this October 25 Solar eclipse, (exact station on October 31).

In addition, the Ascendant in this eclipse chart is also triggering his natal Mars. Mars is the planet of war, but Mars stations and oppositions are frustrating. So will this eclipse bring an end to his war mongering, or will it inflame things further? It's clear that Putin is under pressure as opposition to his expansionist and hostile agenda mounts and people queue up to leave Russia.

The path of this partial solar eclipse crosses Russia, reaching its maximum in West Siberia. Let's hope that these events bring an end to the suffering of the people of Ukraine and Russia.

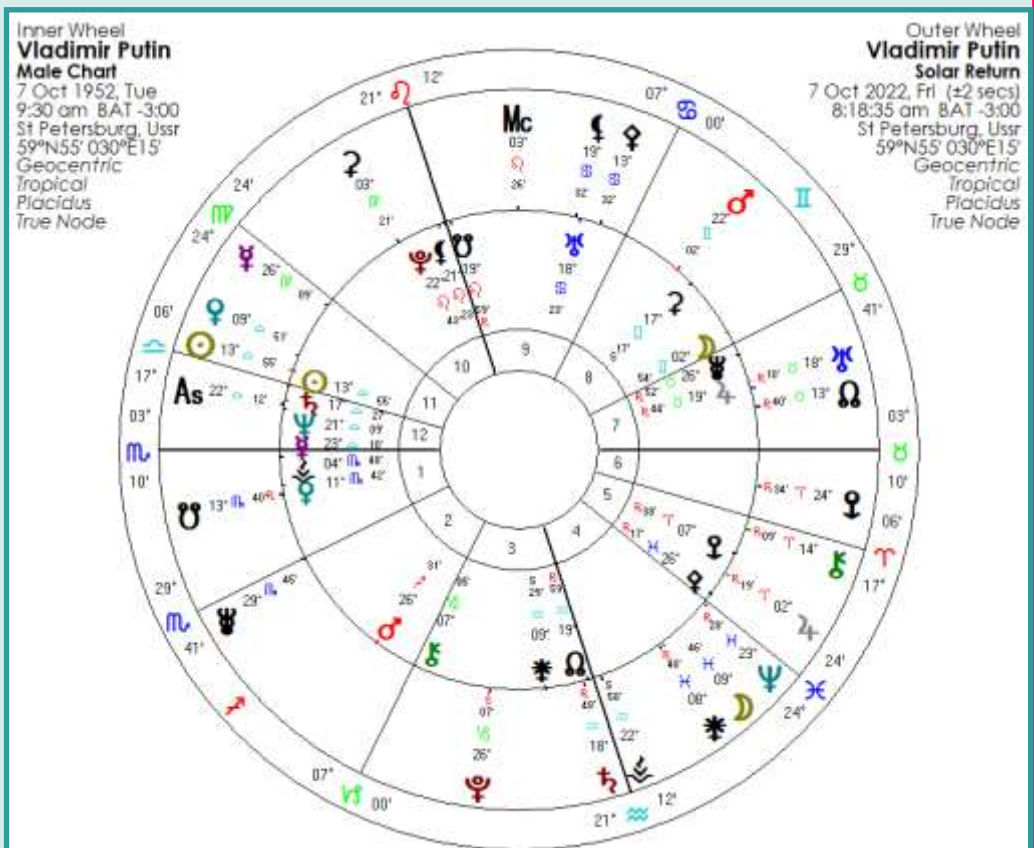

In Putin's Solar Return chart for his birthday this month, (again assuming this birth data is correct) Pluto is virtually stationary, potentially bringing and end to his current trajectory. This restriction and limiting influence is bolstered by transiting Saturn which is crossing his North Node and squares his Jupiter, plus transiting Uranus is on Jupiter and squares his Saturn, adding yet more stress and frustration.

Of course all this assumes that Putin's birth information is accurate. If so, we are likely to see some significant developments unfold over coming days and weeks.

SCORPIO new Moon & SOLAR ECLIPSE

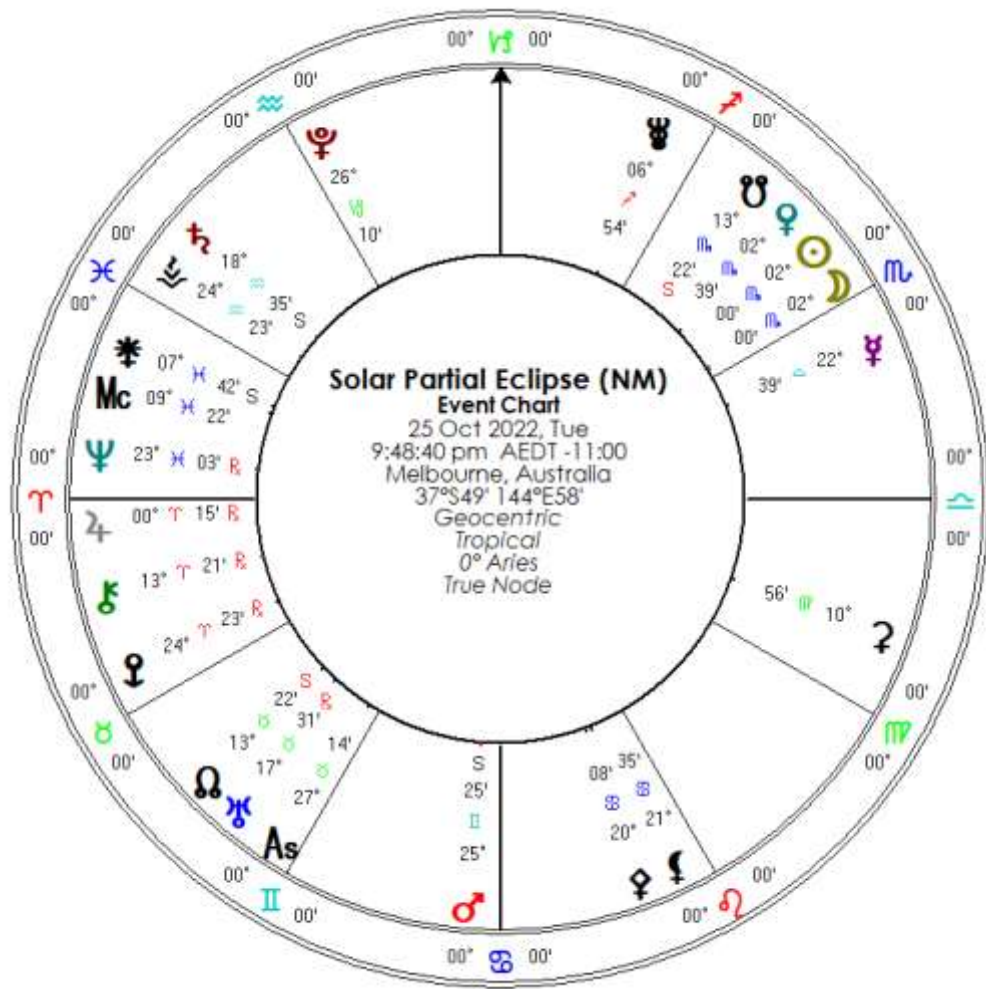

This Scorpio New Moon is a partial solar eclipse visible across most of Europe and surrounds. The eclipse path will cross Russia, so we can anticipate some kind of turning point in the ongoing conflict in that region of the globe. (See Page 4 to see how this eclipse will impact Putin's 1952 chart) both eclipse charts fuels frustration. Mars squares Neptune at this 25 October eclipse, which waters down the potential for aggression, engaging us in a more internal process that can reveal how to escape from conflict or from conflicting circumstances. As the co-ruler of Scorpio, Mars is a significant player at this eclipse and will station retrograde on 31 October. On top of that, Mars goes out of bounds a few days before this eclipse, crossing beyond the northern limits of solar declination, the Tropic of Cancer (23N26'22"). Those whose natal Mars is being thwarted by events are likely to respond with anger and tantrums. There is the potential for violent outbursts and aggression.

New Moons mark the end of one lunation and the start of the next cycle, and eclipses especially foreshadow change.

This eclipse is part of Saros 6 South (124) which commenced on 6 March in the year 1049. In that chart (not shown) there is a Mars-Pluto opposition, and Mars is within days of its station. This is a powerhouse combination and suggests great strength and the potential for aggression. Having Mars stationary in

This book details my research into the 32-year cycle of Venus and Mars.

The symbolic connection between the celestial lovers is mirrored by their interaction as metals copper (Venus) and iron (Mars). This passionate exchange creates life on this planet and has immense impact across social settings and generations.

The Queen & The King

You have no choice in the life you are going to lead and you are in the public eye all the time.

Whether you support the concept of the monarchy or not, the late Queen was incredibly dedicated. Born with Saturn on her Midheaven, she was destined to play that Saturnian dutiful role her entire life.

Reports I have seen say that she died at 2.37pm BST on Thursday 8

September. At the time of her passing, transiting Saturn at 20 Aquarius was crossing her Mars, joined by the transiting Moon at the same degree. Meanwhile, transiting Ceres was at 20 Leo the exact opposite degree. The Moon and Ceres are key archetypes both symbolising mother.

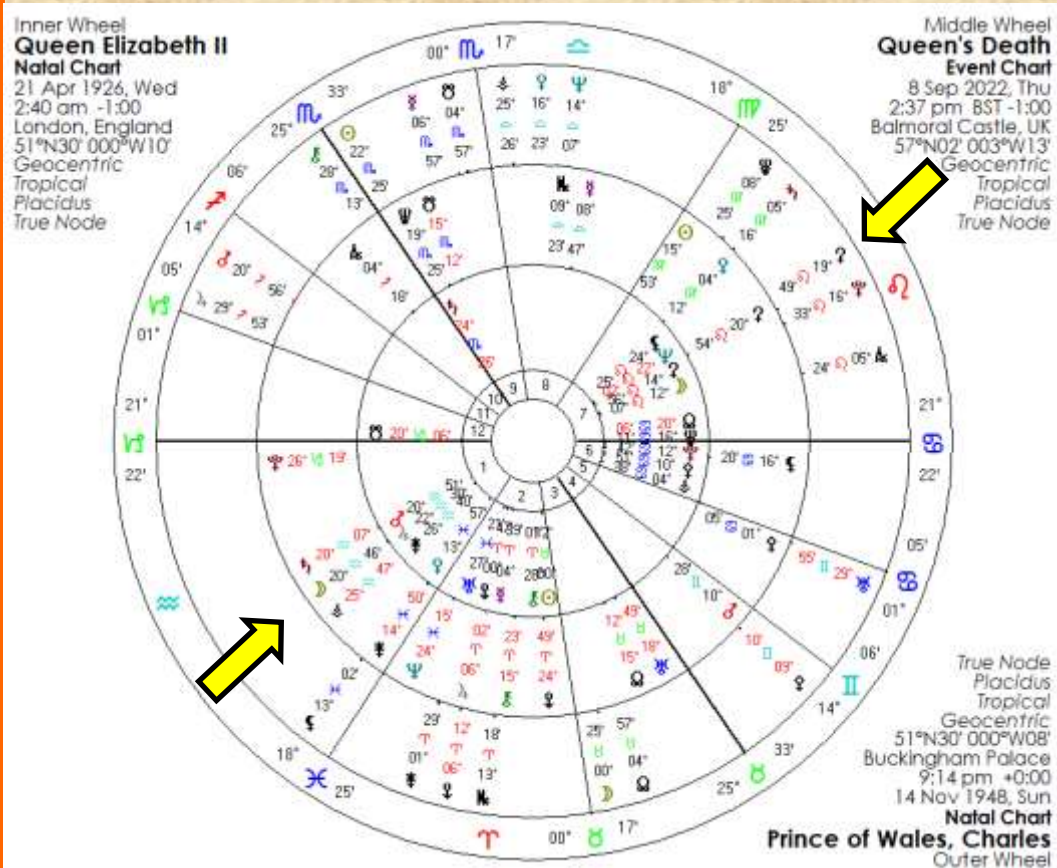

What is remarkable is that these fixed degrees feature prominently in Charles' chart who has now become King Charles III upon his mother's passing.

Transiting Saturn and the transiting Moon, along with transiting Ceres at 20 Leo activate Charles own natal Ceres at 19 Leo. He is having a Ceres Return, with transiting Saturn opposing his Ceres.

These transits also square his natal Sun at 22 Scorpio. While transiting Hygiea is also making a conjunction to his Sun. These transits highlight the fact that Charles' Sun is conjunct his mother's Saturn in Scorpio which is a fitting description of him taking over her duties as monarch.

In the Queen's chart we see her Ceres located in the regal sign of Leo along with Neptune and the Moon. Charles' natal Pluto is only a couple of degrees from his Ceres and plugs into this dynamic pattern too.

Meanwhile, the transiting nodal axis at 15 Scorpio/Taurus and transiting Uranus at 18 Taurus with Saturn's involvement, illustrate the momentous changes that are underway, not just for the Royal family, but also for Commonwealth countries like Australia and indeed the whole traditional concept of monarchy.
