GEMINI FULL MOON

As if we've not had enough tension and madness this year, this Full Moon delivers yet another round of challenges.

The Moon is tightly aligned with retrograde Mars, in fact there are just six minutes of arc separating them. In the middle of Gemini, this combination is a bit like conjoined twins. Moon and Mars also share the same declination, and both are out of bounds at present. There is a great deal of passion, heat, and frustration here.

Mars is making its closest approach to the Earth at this Full Moon. This is likely to arouse a fight, or flight response from those whose charts are triggered. This is likely to include Donald Trump who has several Gemini planets, the closest to this Full Moon is his radical Uranus at 17 Gemini.

Importantly, there is a lunar occultation of Mars now. The Moon will move directly in front of Mars, but Mars will only be hidden from view for those located in parts of North America and western Europe. Go here for more details. For the rest of us, Mars and the Moon will appear very close together in the sky.

Many of us are facing significant challenges and this Full Moon is likely to bring matters to a head. Not only do we face personal challenges, but there are global concerns and tensions affecting many.

This Full Moon will test our resilience, but the good news is that the excess mutability suggests that change is imminent.

CHARTS IN THE NEWS

AUSTRALIA

It's fair to say that Australia is going through a process of transformation. Politically, and on the world stage, we are experiencing a growth spurt.

The Moon in a national chart is a symbol of its people. Australia's Moon is in Taurus, symbolising our resourcefulness, practical, earthy and persistent character, which is very much connected to the land.

Using this chart the Moon is at 12 Taurus, (apart from differing angles this is the main point of difference to the Sydney based afternoon chart that has the Moon in a later degree of Taurus). What is important to note here is that the New Moon this month sees the transiting North Node sitting on our Moon. This symbolises our evolution as a people and consciously dealing with issues of long standing, such as the Aboriginal Voice to Parliament that is about to be enacted.

Transiting Uranus crossed over the Moon around the time of the Federal election in May this year, signalling a dramatic change in the voting habits of the Australian population. Climate change and its impacts are now front of mind for many communities, more so in the wake of the floods that have swept over vast regions of the country.

This month's Full Moon at 16GE01 along with transiting Mars, trigger Australia's Pluto, foreshadowing further transformation that will evoke emotional responses from some sectors of the public.

As Mars is currently retrograde, it's been opposing Uranus and Venus and is likely to trigger these points in our national chart until February next year when Mars returns again to 16 Gemini.

capricorn new moon

December 23, the Friday commit to healthy habits.

before Xmas, just after the Solstice, this invisible Supermoon focuses our attention on our plans for 2023. Venus, Mercury, Hygiea and Pluto join the Sun and Moon in Capricorn, highlighting our long held ambitions as we consider how to go about fulfilling them.

Sun, Moon and Hygiea are the focal point of a T-square with Ceres and Jupiter aligned at 0 degrees of cardinal signs, this is a critical time for decision making.

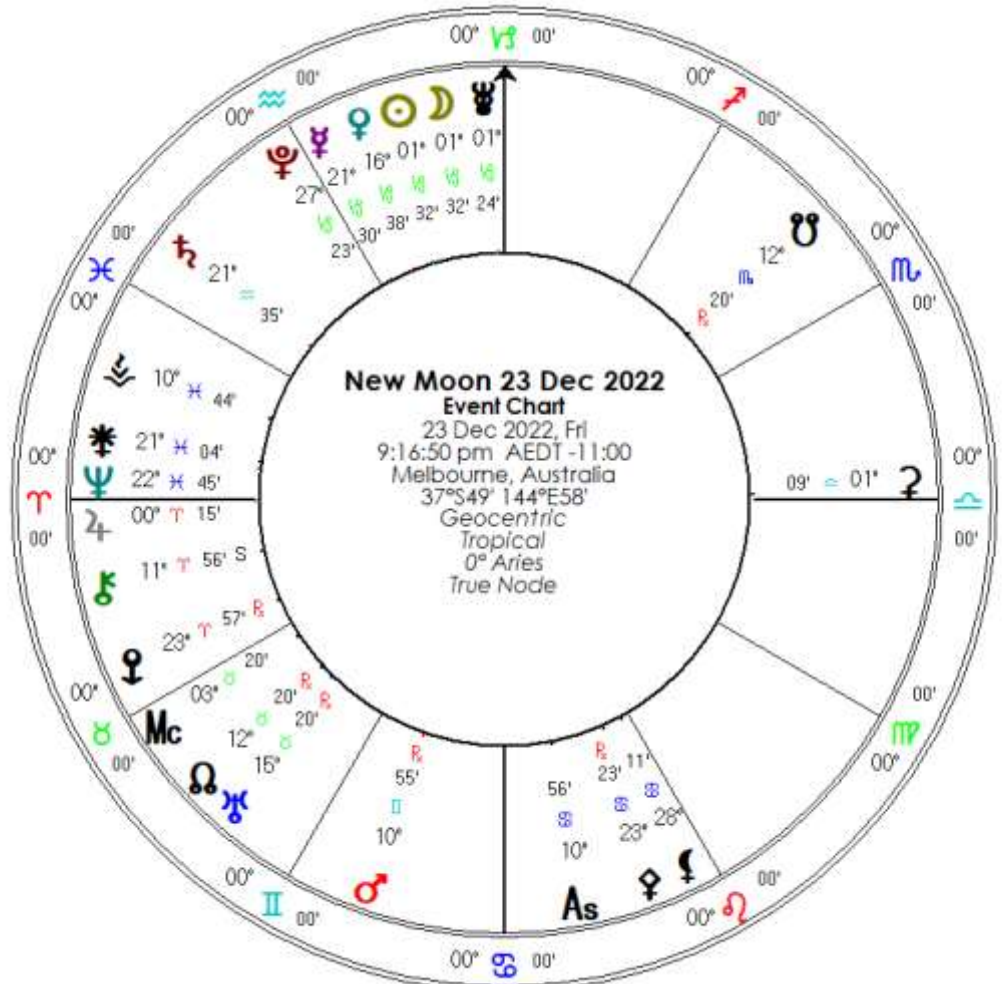

A healthy lifestyle is not just about diet and exercise, but also about the health of the environment. Ceres at 0 Libra is calling us to account for our actions, and inactions concerning the impact we have on our environment. What decisions need to be made? How can we minimise our ecological footprint?

T-squares are intrinsically challenging. The missing cardinal point here is Cancer, so becoming more aware of our local environment and domestic activities will help pave the way forward.

Chiron stations 45 minutes (time) before this New Moon, engaging us in a healing narrative.

Hygiea, goddess of preventative medicine and hygiene is very close to the Sun and Moon, making her message clear too. The focus is on healing and wellbeing, so diet and nutrition are important considerations. This is an opportunity to re-

solstice

Just before this month's New Moon, the Sun reaches its annual turning point at 0 Capricorn, when it arrives at its most southerly declination. The chart for the Capricorn ingress of the Sun is very similar to the New Moon, with just a day and a half separating these key stellar events.

Jupiter sits at 0 Aries, with Ceres at 0 Libra, highlighting the many environmental concerns we collectively face.

Cardinal signs are associated with choices and decision making. So the question now is what are we going to commit to? What options are available to us? How can we make inroads towards our goals? And what are those goals, personally and politically?

Hygiea, Ceres and Jupiter are seeking conscious expression, and given that Chiron is stationary, healing and health are high on the agenda.

Physical health as well as the health of the planet and environment are equally in focus. There is a close sextile between stationary Chiron and retrograde Mars, and the midpoint closely ties to the nodal axis. This highlights the choices we are making and the long term implications of our actions.
