Virgo Full Moon

Last month's Full Moon squared unpredictable Uranus, but now the Moon happily trines Uranus with the Sun in sextile.

This generates a productive time when things should flow along without too much interference.

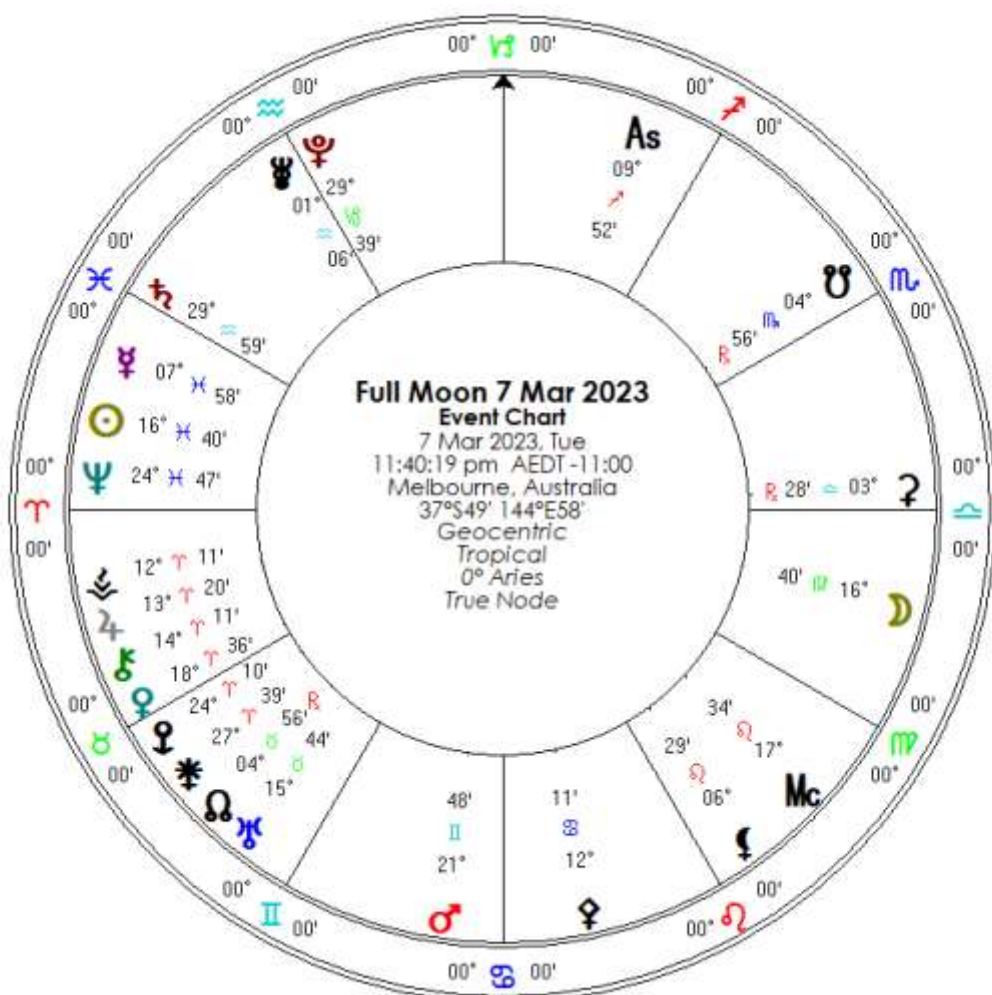

at anaretic degrees (29) so there is the sense now that something big is about to happen. A new agenda is about to emerge and systemic change is the order of the day. We are about to experience these two major players of the solar system changing signs almost simultaneously which foreshadows a powerful energy shift at the collective level.

Meanwhile, Jupiter is racing along through Aries, so activity is at full pitch. Jupiter and Chiron unite at this Full Moon so it would be wise not to take on too many projects at once, or rush through them too quickly, for accidents can happen under these conditions, especially at Full Moon. Try to be patient and use this lunation productively. Virgo likes to be kept busy.

That being said, Saturn is a breath away from its shift into Pisces, where the disciplined energy of the ringed planet will be less structured and given to daydreaming.

Saturn in Pisces is a wonderful time for artistic expression. The imagination is easily channelled into creative activities.

Notably, both Saturn and Pluto are

EARTHQUAKES

Last month's Full Moon activated a tense fixed T-square with Uranus. That day, two powerful earthquakes shattered the lives of many thousands of people in Turkey and Syria. The impact of these quakes was immense. Three weeks after the twin quakes, the death toll stands at over 50,000. Many thousands more have been injured, not to mention the widespread structural damage across the region.

A number of astrologers have investigated earthquakes and the planetary positions that may trigger them. It has long been thought that the additional gravitational pressure at Full Moon may trigger seismic shifts.

Of course not all quakes happen on Full Moons. The most powerful ever recorded earthquake happened in Chile in 1960 (see chart above). This powerful quake happened on a Balsamic Moon (just before New Moon with no Moon visible) with 30 degrees separating Sun and Moon.

The second most powerful quake ever recorded was in Alaska in 1964 (see middle chart). This one did happen on a Full Moon, just 47 minutes after the exact Full Moon. Big seismic shifts don't necessarily result in massive loss of life. Indeed smaller ones can be more destructive than bigger ones.

The Boxing Day quake in 2004 was the fifth most powerful jolt ever recorded and this one took place about 14 hours before a Full Moon.

There have been many more earthquakes throughout history before we had the tools to measure them.

Ar ies new moon

There are times when the planets align in spectacularly and synchronise with one another. This New Moon coincides with the Equinox which happens just hours beforehand, then Pluto shifts into Aquarius.

There are a staggering number of planets in Aries, led by Neptune in the latter stages of Pisces and they are followed by several more in Taurus, creating a huge line up in the two first signs of the zodiac.

Moon, Sun, Mercury, Chiron, Jupiter, Vesta and Eris are all present and accounted for, and Mars the natural ruler of Aries is in late Gemini, squaring Neptune, the Sun and Moon, while also 150 degrees from Pluto, which itself is about to cross into Aquarius.

Ceres is at 0 Libra, opposes the Sun and Moon and squares Mars, so there is a lot at stake as we enter this new terrain.

With this New Moon tying into the Equinox so closely, plus Pluto's dramatic ingress into Aquarius, it foreshadows a dynamic range of 'firsts'. Known for innovation, hero- ic acts and courage, Aries is honest and forthright. All this Aries energy tells us this is the perfect time to start anything new, but Aries is not long on patience and with Mars, its ruler awkwardly positioned, frustration and tempers could flare.

Hopefully, Taurus will provide some staying power and patience to help control all this Aries exuberance.

PLUTO IN AQUARIUS

The Aries Ingress takes place just hours before the Aries New Moon on March 22 and shortly before the ingress of Pluto into Aquarius on March 23.

The cluster of planets in Aries, the first sign of the zodiac, accentuates the dynamic shift in energy we are witnessing.

This week is a dramatic time and with Mars and Pluto separated by 150 degrees, it may prove difficult to adjust to the new circumstances that come one after another. Quincunxes are awkward aspects and with Mars and Pluto involved, the tension this produces could be expressed in angry outbursts.

Pluto will first cross into Aquarius on March 23, but will track back and forth between Capricorn and Aquarius until November 2024 when it finally takes up residence in the progressive sign of the water-bearer.

So we have time to get used to the future as it comes rushing in to meet us. Major changes in technology are being initiated as we begin to glimpse the future. We are already seeing the impact of ChatGPT and other AI developments that Pluto in Aquarius is delivering.

New methods of generating energy and distributing power are another area where change is likely. The revolutionary forces suggested by this ingress previously saw the Industrial Revolution, the French and American revolutions and the discovery of Uranus, which revolutionised traditional systems and models of the solar system and impacted astrology too!
