June 2023

In March, transformative Pluto crossed the threshold of futuristic, community-minded Aquarius, delivering some exciting and dynamic changes for us all.

Pluto in Aquarius is seeding breakthroughs in technology like AI, and clean renewable energy, but it also speaks to the shared resources of our living planet that have to be preserved and managed with the future of humanity in mind.

This process will unfold in stages. The first is the transition stage from March 2023 to November 2024 when Pluto will at times be backtracking through the last stages of Capricorn and crossing back and forth over the first degrees of Aquarius.

This month Pluto regresses back into Capricorn to undertake unfinished business. Old systems and carbon related technologies are being wound up. Cleaner renewables associated with Aquarius are quickly emerging. Aquarius is the sign of the water-bearer and its chief methods are distribution, and cleansing. The etymology of 'February', the month when the Sun is in Aquarius, means 'purification'. Aquarius is an air sign, but there is a lot of water in its symbolism.

This month the Solstice, when the Sun moves into Cancer, is an important marker when we pause to consider our direction and commitments over the coming three months.

SAGITTARIUS FULL MOON

Jupiter is the expansive ruling planet of Sagittarius. They share a big-picture, universal attitude. Known for its generosity and adventurous spirit, Sagittarius is also a philosophical sign.

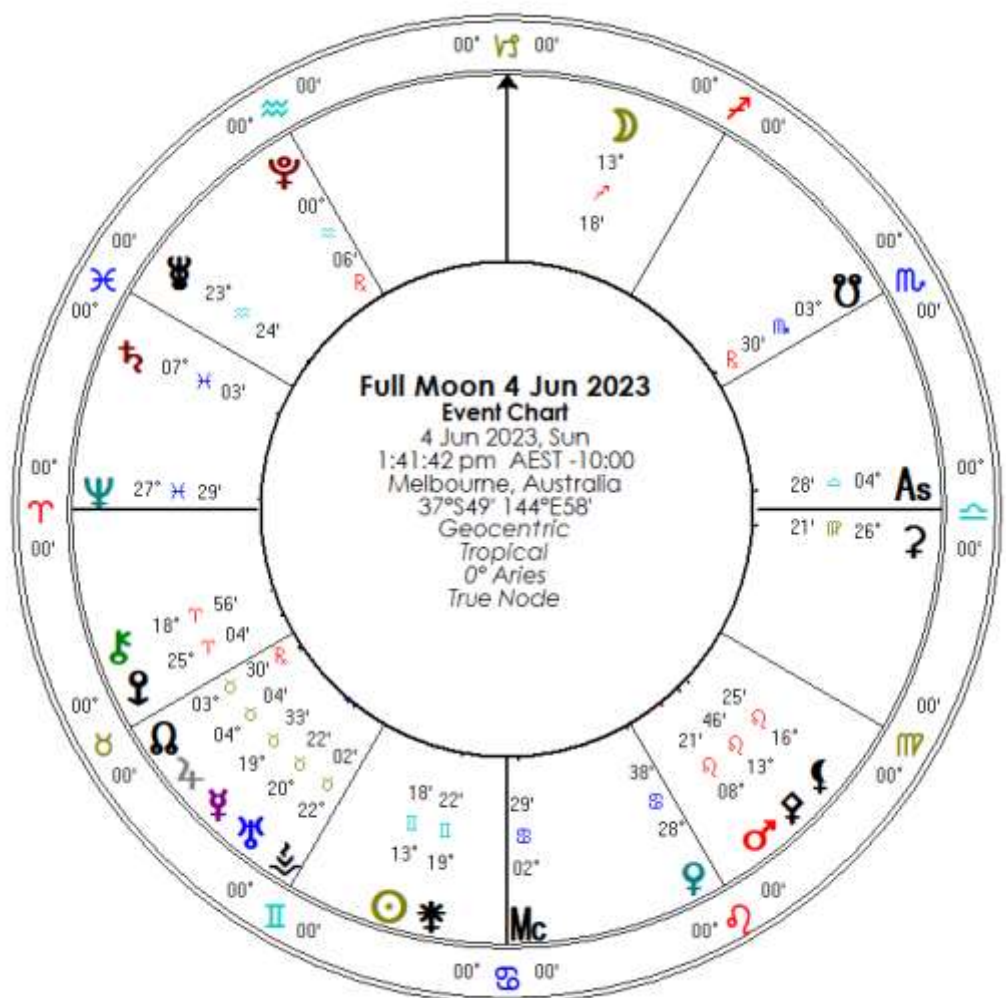

Mercury is looking ahead to the future and due to its conjunction with Uranus, is focused on science and truth. Jupiter is also looking forward with an optimistic outlook with its alignment to the North Node. Taurus is a practical and determined sign. The implications are that there will be a strong urge to push ahead with our agendas, be they material objectives, or visionary ones.

Venus opposes Pluto in the days after this Full Moon setting in place a clear defining line around our commitments, and may ask for some kind of sacrifice before we can fully step towards our desires.

The Sun and Moon have no major stressful aspects at this Full Moon, but Jupiter and the North Node are in a tight conjunction in early Taurus, which will add layers of complexity to this Full Moon.

Much of the celestial activity is centred in Taurus, where the ruling planets of both the Sun (Mercury) and the Moon (Jupiter) are located.

CHARTS IN THE NEWS

CHARLES III Coronation and the question of an Australian Republic

The coronation of Charles III has highlighted the fact that Australia is still tied to the British Crown. Let's look at the impact that Charles' coronation might have in the push for an Australian Republic.

I thought it would be interesting to compare the coronation chart to the original claim made by Captain Cook. This took place just before sunset on 22 August in 1770.

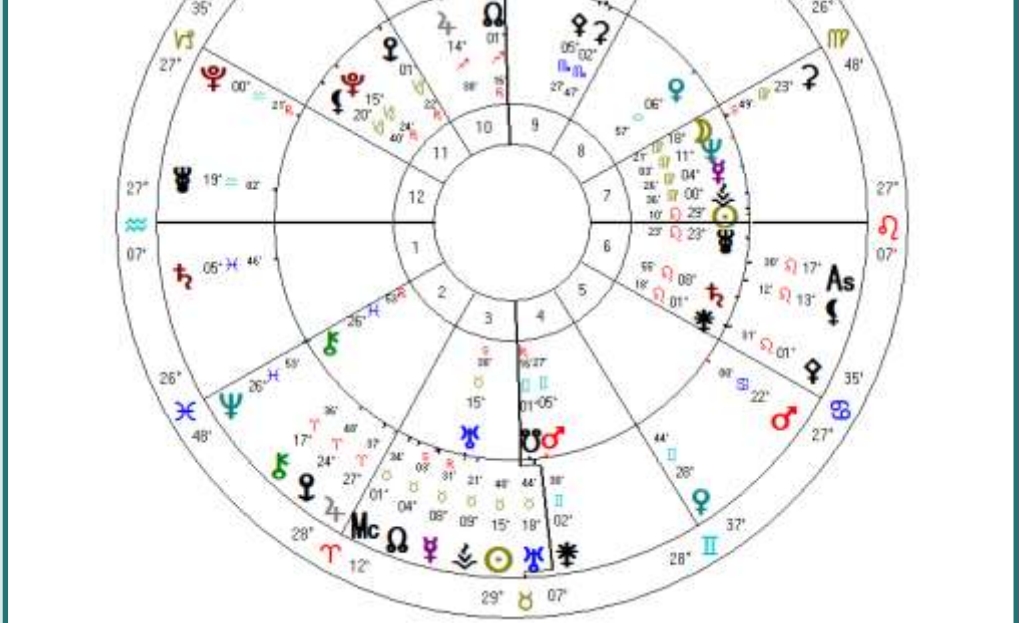

At that time Uranus was in the middle of Taurus and stationary, highlighting the lasting impact of Cook's claim on behalf of the British Crown. Now however we see that the impacts of this historic event are under the microscope of the transiting Sun and transiting Uranus which are once again in the middle of Taurus. The Coronation Sun is within two minutes of arc of Uranus in the chart for the British claim, bringing conscious awareness to Cook's proclamation on behalf of the British Crown in 1770, and the impact of this event, awakening renewed interest into the lasting effects of colonisation.

Transiting Saturn makes a tight opposition to Mercury and an even tighter square to Mars creating a mutable T-square, foreshadowing systemic change.

Significantly, transiting Neptune is exactly aligned with Chiron, at the same degree and minute of arc, 26PI53 evoking the collective desire for healing around the traumatic effects of colonisation on the indigenous people of Australia.

It seems poignant that the government is in the process of giving the original inhabitants of this land a Voice to Parliament, which will hopefully go some way towards re-establishing a sense of belonging and empowerment, reconnecting them to their lands and cultural values.

Meanwhile, transiting Pluto has recently entered the 12th house, where past secrets are sequestered. Pluto will soon oppose Juno before moving on to oppose Saturn in the years ahead. That opposition (exact in February 2029) may well signal an historic change in the Australia constitution and the advent of an Australian Republic. That process will take time to unfold, but it seems that the impetus for change has been set in motion.

If we progress the chart for Cook's 1770 claim we see that the Progressed Sun is at 11 Taurus and that Uranus is still located at 15 Taurus. Since Uranus was stationary and turning retrograde in the 1770 chart, it has only now returned to that location, but it is now joined with the progressed Sun in Taurus, just as they are in the coronation chart.

The progressed Sun of the British claim chart will unite with its progressed Uranus at 15TA38 in October 2027, which is another key date to watch when we may finally see the establishment of an Australian Republic.

Gemini new moon

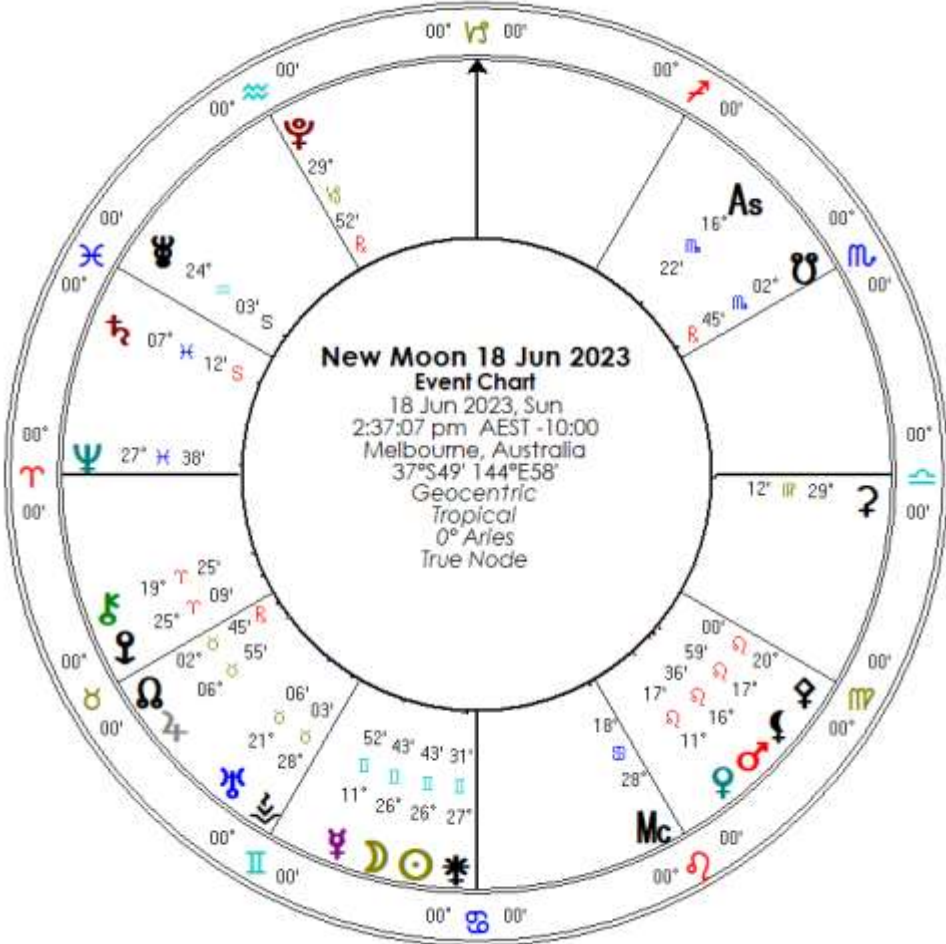

This Gemini New Moon is close to asteroid goddess Juno, setting the scene for some potential drama to unfold. Sun, Moon and Juno are involved in a mutable square with nebulous Neptune and with Ceres in late Virgo. This mutable T-square evokes an odd ambience and presents us with myriad possibilities. Gemini is a curious sign, sometimes operating as a trickster, but it can also be very logical. Neptune is imaginative, and not the least bit logical. This square sets up a right-brain versus left brain conversation that may be rather confusing.

Thank goodness rational Saturn comes to make sense of things, stationing retrograde in Pisces right on schedule. Saturn stations emphasise qualities such as responsibility and discipline. Saturn wants things clearly defined so that boundaries are respected and we have a solid framework that makes sense.

Mercury, is still up to some tricks though, as it squares Saturn, but this square anchors us in reality and provides some flexibility as well as discipline.

Once we clear out any mental fog or distractions, we will be able to focus on our creative ideas and goals and make real progress.

This book details my research into the 32-year cycle of Venus and Mars.

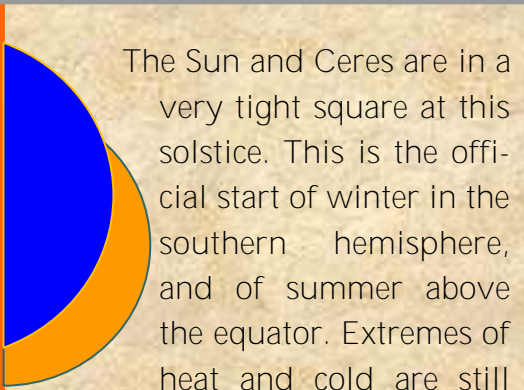

The symbolic connection between the celestial lovers is mirrored by their interaction as metals copper (Venus) and iron (Mars). This passionate exchange creates life on this planet and has immense impact across social settings and generations.

June solstice

The Sun and Ceres are in a very tight square at this solstice. This is the official start of winter in the southern hemisphere, and of summer above the equator. Extremes of heat and cold are still ahead of us, but we may have a taste of these fluctuations and other environmental effects and weather phenomenon with this Solstice. Ceres is the goddess of crops and the bounty of the Earth.

Ceres at 0 Libra and her trine to Pluto augurs well for a balanced approach to environmental management in this quarter, or at very least the need to redress imbalances. Key decisions around environmental issues are slated.

Venus, Mars and a slither of a waxing crescent Moon are on display in Leo and will be seen after sunset in the western skies.

What is interesting about this Venus-Mars rendezvous is that although the Venus-Mars conjunction that looks imminent, it will not be perfect. Venus is slowing down and she will not reunite with her celestial lover at this time.

Venus will station retrograde next month.

With the Moon in Leo joining Venus and Mars, this is a creative Solstice. The Moon and Sun are in mutual reception, an arrangement that provides an interface between unconscious and conscious processes.

Listen to dreams, synchronicity and other magical happenings which invite us to manifest our dreams.

This is a very creative and generous Ingress, but the Moon's square to Jupiter could become indulgent and self-serving, so be mindful of any displays of vanity or pride.
